SOLDIERS' HOME.

In October of 1889 the "Confederate Veteran Association" adopted a resolution that a home for helpless, disabled veterans was a necessity, and instructed the Secretary to open a book for subscription. By August 29 of the following year about $3,000 in money and good notes had been secured. The Executive Committee then instructed the Secretary to rent a suitable building and advertise that such a home was open. The property at the corner of Polk and East streets was rented at a cost of $12.50 per month, and was soon full to overflowing. The Legislature, by an act passed February 16, 1891, appropriated $3,000 per annum, and gave what is known as the Camp Russell property. It consisted of about five acres of land, and a lot of tumble-down old buildings built of undressed pine boards. They were reconstructed in the best manner possible, and they made a very comfortable summer residence, but for a winter home it lacked a great deal.

In 1892 and 1893 two additional buildings were erected—one being a large and convenient dining-room with other rooms attached, and another building was moved from another part of the property to be used as a laundry, or for bed-rooms if necessary. A hospital was also erected, porches built and repaired, and a new fence erected on the eastern side, and the stable and fence on the western side properly repaired. Sixty-five inmates were comfortably accommodated. A system of rules and regulations was introduced, but were not strictly enforced by the Superintendent. For persistent violation of rules inmates were discharged. There was a regular system of furloughs, and inmates were permitted to go home when they desired, if the management was assured they would be properly cared for during their visits.

In 1900 a large hospital, with all modern improvements and appliances, was built for the Soldiers' Home, and in 1902 we finished a large dormitory consisting of twenty-four rooms, besides reception rooms, offices, etc., and which accommodated very comfortably fifty additional men. This dormitory was equipped with all modern improvements, such as lights, water, closets, etc. There were on the roll at that time one hundred and ten, and during that year there were one hundred and forty-eight on the roll. The average attendance was ninety-five. The State appropriated $13,000 annually for the maintenance of the institution, and the Chapters of the Daughters of the Confederacy furnished the new dormitory, besides providing a fine lot of clothing, roller-chair for the hospital, bedding, etc. Two splendid physicians, Dr. Hines and Dr. McGeachy, the first an old soldier himself, were, and are still, the regular medical attendants, and spare no pains in looking after the health of the old soldiers. We had ninety-eight present at the Home on November 30, 1903. We have now one hundred and sixteen present and thirteen on furlough, making a total of one hundred and twenty-nine inmates. There has been no change in the government of the institution. The annual appropriations of $13,000 for maintenance and $1,200 for improvements have been sufficient for our needs, and we have lived within the appropriations and have no outstanding indebtedness. We have about forty applications on file for admission, which cannot be acted upon for the want of additional room; and if we are to take care of all who need our help, the Legislature will have to make an increased appropriation, both for maintenance and enlargement.
